STATE V. DAMES.
SUPPONE COURT of North Carolia.

THE PACT THAT A MERICHANT
SOMETIMES TOOK LUMBER AND
SHINGLES IN PAYMEST.
THE REVENTEE LAW REQUIRED AND
SHINGLES IN PAYMEST.
THE GRANT HAND THE PACT T under the revenue act.

The court says;

Upon the findings of the jury, the court below was of opinion that the defendant was guilty. In this we think there was error, Section 55, c. 11, Laws 1899, known as the "Revenue Act," imposes a license tax of $10 on "lumber dealers." The word "daler" implies an habitual course of dealing, and a "lumber dealer" means one who habitually deals in lumber. Our revenue acts appear to have used the words "dealer" and "trader" as synonymous,—using sometimes one word, and senetimes the other,—and they have been so held by this court in State v. Yeaby, in State v. Chadbourn, a "trader" is defined as "one engaged in trade, or in the business of buying and selling." And on page 482 this court says: "Still they must be traders who buy cr sell, and not others who follow a different occupation. The offense is consummated only when the act of buying or selling is done by one whose business it is to buy and sell, and in the exercise of his calling." We do not mean to say that a man cannot be a dealer unless he deals exclusively in one article or class or articles. He may deal in two or more different lines of trade, and it would make no difference if his course of dealing was principally in one line, provided he habitually deal in the other. The mere fact that a man whose business was that of a merchant in a country towa may sometimes as occasion requires, take lumber or shingles, or anything else, in payment of a debi, or in exchange for the goods that he keeps for sale, does not make him a dealer in such articles, within the meaning of the statute. To hold that it did would frequently work great hardship and injustice. Many a country merchant is in a large degree dependent upon the barter of his neighborhood, and his business might be seriously crippled, if not destroyed, if he were subject to cumulative license taxes upon every class of articles that he might occasionally be compelled to buy. The judgment of the court below is reversed upon the special verdict and a verdict of acquit

GRAND RAPIDS V. DE VRIES. Supreme Court of Michigan, April 3, 1900.

CITY CAN PASS AN ORDINANCE REGULATING THE REMOVAL OF GARBAGE AND PROVIDING THAT NO ONE COULD REMOVE IT UN-LESS LICENSED BY THE CITY. T MAY ALSO CONFINE SUCH A

The court says:

The charter provisions empower the Council to pass ordinances to regulate the collection, removal, and disposal of garbage, etc. These matters in and of themselves are regarded as nuisances; that is, the ordinary and accepted meaning of the words "garbage" and "offail" is such refuse matters that in and of themselves are nuisances. Matter of this character he (the householder) is required to care for by depositing the same in air-tight vessels or tanks, and dispose of it in such a way that will not endanger the public health.

But Council says that the ordinance is unreasonable and therefore void; and that it also creates a monopoly. In the present case we think the ordinance is not unreasonable as to the manner of gathering and removing garbage. The charter does not in express terms empower the Council to grant an expression or regulated. Yours, very truly,

Since the Indian as a subject for Art has come to the front, he has engrossed some of the front, he has engrossed some of the best efforts of several of our strongest men, Mr. J. H. An Invocation to the "Trues." which is their poetical name for the ruling forces of Nature; the old chiefs clad in their brilliant blankets in the golden glory of the evening light with the Pueblo rising cliff like in the distance makes a very beautiful and pleturesque canvas.
